Séance 2 · 26 January: one date, two names

Nom : _____ Classe : _____ Date : _____

Read this text (CE)

On 26 January every year, many Australians celebrate Australia Day with barbecues, fireworks and flags.

But for many Aboriginal people, this date marks the beginning of invasion, the loss of their land and the destruction of their families. Some call it "Invasion Day" or "Survival Day".

Today, speakers often begin with an "Acknowledgement of Country": they recognise the traditional owners of the land. For a young visitor, understanding this debate is a way to respect the people who have lived there for more than 65,000 years.

Trace écrite

26 January is Australia Day for some people, and Invasion Day or Survival Day for others.

Your work

1. Read the text once, then again with a pencil.
2. ★ What happens on 26 January? Give two examples.
3. ★ Find two other names for this day.
4. ★ What is an Acknowledgement of Country?
5. ★★ Why is the date controversial? Write three lines in your own words.
6. ★★ Give one argument for changing the date, and one against.
