Part I. Student worksheet

Name: _____

Class: _____

Viewing date or dates: _____

Edition or viewing platform: _____

Subtitles used: _____

1. Your task

Watch the whole film at home.

Then prepare a contribution to our debate:

> Can outside support create lasting hope without taking control of other people's futures?

By the end, you should be able to:

• identify important characters, places and turning points;

• explain what lacrosse makes possible and what it cannot solve;

• discuss young people's decisions and community relationships;

• connect the film to land, water, promises and representation;

• support an opinion with a specific moment;

• distinguish a character's viewpoint from your own interpretation.

Choose your route

| Route | While viewing | After viewing | Spoken contribution |
|---|---|---|---|
| Première LVA B1+ | Answer all questions in notes. Develop four interpretations. | 140 to 170 words | 60 to 90 seconds |
| Première LVB B1 | Answer all factual questions. Choose three interpretations. | 100 to 130 words | 45 to 60 seconds |
| Bac pro and CFA | Answer all factual questions in keywords. Develop two interpretations. | 80 to 120 words | 45 to 60 seconds |

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| CAP A2 | Use the independent adapted worksheet below. | Five to seven linked sentences | 20 to 30 seconds |

These are working routes, not speed tests.

A care agreement

You may write:

• “I prefer not to describe this moment.”

• “I need a different task for this question.”

• “I can discuss the film without sharing a personal experience.”

Do not record graphic details.

If the film upsets you, stop and speak to a trusted adult or an appropriate support service. Completing the worksheet is not more important than your wellbeing.

Our rule for discussing Inuit voices

Discuss what a named character says or does, or what the film presents.

Use:

> “Adam’s grandparents are presented as…”
>
> “Miranda’s actions suggest…”
>
> “In this scene, the film invites viewers to…”

Do not use:

> “All Inuit people think…”

Do not pretend to speak as an Inuit person, an Elder or a member of the community. In the debate, speak as a student analysing sources.

2. Before viewing

Exercise B1. Establish the source

Read this information.

The Grizzlies is a Canadian film directed by Miranda de Pencier and released in 2018. It follows a teacher and young people involved in a lacrosse team in Kugluktuk, Nunavut. It is based on real events.

Answer:

1. What is the title?

2. Who directed it?

3. Where is the story set?

© 2026 Madame Carole Paoli Pompougnac · CC BY-NC-SA 4.0

4. Is this a fictional drama based on real events, or a complete documentary record?

5. Can one film represent every Inuit experience? Explain in one sentence.

Exercise B2. Revisit lesson 7

Complete these statements.

1. In lesson 7, I studied _____.

2. Before watching the full film, I could explain _____.

3. I could not yet judge _____.

4. After watching, I will be able to discuss _____.

Exercise B3. Predict, then reconsider

Choose two statements.

Write “agree”, “partly agree” or “disagree”. Add a reason.

1. A successful team needs more than a successful coach.

2. Keeping a promise can matter as much as winning.

3. Someone arriving from outside may misunderstand what a community needs.

4. A hopeful film should also show the limits of hope.

Before viewing, I think: _____

My reason: _____

Return to these statements after the film.

3. While viewing: your evidence method

Use three labels:

• O: I observed this in the film.

• I: This is my interpretation.

• ?: I need to check.

Example:

> O: Miranda helps organise fundraising.
> I: This presents her as an organiser, not simply a recipient of help.

For each part, record one moment.

| Character or place | What happens? | My interpretation | Approximate timestamp, if useful |

Questions marked F ask for factual information.

Questions marked I ask for interpretation. Several answers may be justified.

4. Part 1: Arrival, school and first impressions

Narrative landmark: from Russ's arrival to his decision to try a lacrosse project.

Questions

P1.1 F. What job does Russ Sheppard take, and in which community?

P1.2 F. What personal reasons initially influence his decision to work there?

P1.3 F. Name two difficulties he encounters at school.

P1.4 F. Which student's death precedes the development of his team project? Give the name only. You do not need to describe the death.

P1.5 I. Choose one moment in which Russ interprets behaviour before understanding its context. What information is he missing?

P1.6 I. How does the opening position the viewer? Do we initially discover the community mainly through Russ, through several young people, or through both? Support your answer.

P1.7 I. Record one visual detail involving buildings, land, weather or water. What impression does it create? Distinguish your reaction from a claim about how local people feel.

Transition:

> Russ has an idea. The next question is whether an idea becomes a shared project simply because a teacher proposes it.

5. Part 2: Building a team

Narrative landmark: from the first attempts to recruit players to the development of regular practice.

Questions

P2.1 F. What sport does Russ introduce?

P2.2 F. Which student advises him to involve Zach and Adam?

P2.3 F. What responsibilities connect Adam and Zach to life beyond school? Give one detail for each.

P2.4 F. Where does Russ discover that Kyle has been sleeping? What practical help does he offer?

P2.5 F. What does Russ offer Zach to persuade him to attend an early practice and bring others?

P2.6 I. Find one moment when a young person makes something happen. Complete:

> "_____ shows agency by _____."

P2.7 I. Identify one change that playing together makes possible. Do not write "sport solves everything".

P2.8 I. Who contributes knowledge or relationships that Russ does not possess?

Transition:

© 2026 Madame Carole Paoli Pompougnac · CC BY-NC-SA 4.0

A team can change relationships. It does not remove family responsibilities, material pressures or memories of institutions.

6. Part 3: Land, family, trust and community decisions

Narrative landmark: from the plan to travel to Toronto to the council's decision about support.

Questions

P3.1 F. Where does the team hope to travel, and for what event?

P3.2 F. Who takes a leading role in fundraising? Name one fundraising activity shown.

P3.3 F. Why are Adam's grandparents reluctant to support his attendance at school?

P3.4 F. What are Adam and his grandparents doing when Russ visits them on the land?

P3.5 F. What does Russ give Adam during this visit?

P3.6 F. Why does Zach's responsibility towards his family interfere with school and practice?

P3.7 F. What financial problem threatens the trip?

P3.8 F. What does Miranda do when fundraising is not enough? Whose intervention helps change the council's decision?

P3.9 I. Compare two purposes for learning:

• what Russ initially associates with school;

• what Adam's family knows and teaches through life on the land.

How could these forms of knowledge be recognised without treating one as worthless?

P3.10 I. Choose a scene showing land or water as more than attractive scenery. Explain its connection to knowledge, food, relationships or responsibility.

P3.11 I. Explain the difference between these claims:

• "Adam's grandparents distrust this school because of experiences connected with residential schools."

• "Inuit families reject education."

Which claim is better supported by this story, and why?

Transition:

Funding raises a further question: when adults promise opportunities, what responsibilities follow if those opportunities become uncertain?

7. Part 4: Loss, promises and the decision to continue

Narrative landmark: from the final obstacles before departure to the team's journey.

© 2026 Madame Carole Paoli Pompougnac · CC BY-NC-SA 4.0

Questions

P4.1 F. Which player dies before the journey? Give the name only.

P4.2 F. What career opportunity has Russ received elsewhere?

P4.3 F. Which student confronts him as he prepares to leave?

P4.4 F. Where are the young people gathered when she shows him their shared grief?

P4.5 I. What does this moment reveal about support that exists between the young people, rather than only between teacher and students?

P4.6 I. Identify one commitment connected with the trip. Who makes or carries it? Who depends on it?

P4.7 I. Why would it be misleading to describe the team as proof that every difficulty has now disappeared?

Transition:

> The final part asks us to reconsider what success means, and who has the authority to define it.

8. Part 5: Toronto, the match and the ending

Narrative landmark: from the team's arrival at the competition to the end of the closing material.

Questions

P5.1 F. Does the team win the competition?

P5.2 F. What sporting achievement matters during the final match?

P5.3 F. Which player challenges the idea that taking part is already enough and encourages the team to keep trying?

P5.4 F. What does Russ decide about his future?

P5.5 F. What connection to the real people behind the story appears in the closing material?

P5.6 I. Compare Russ's and Kyle's responses during the match. How does Kyle challenge an adult's definition of success?

P5.7 I. Does the ending present hope as a final solution or as the possibility of continuing? Explain.

P5.8 I. Does the closing material change your response to the drama? Why? Remember that a film's selection of real-life information is still a selection.

9. Building your vocabulary

11. Language focus: activities, concessions and careful claims

A. An activity as the subject

Use the -ing form.

> Playing together can strengthen relationships.

Not:

> Play together can strengthen relationships.

B. A concession

Use “although” to recognise a limit or a contrasting fact.

> Although Russ starts the project, he does not control every decision.

Avoid combining “although” and “but” in the same structure.

C. A careful claim

Use “may” or “can” when an effect is possible, not guaranteed.

> Sport can create opportunities for cooperation.

This is more careful than:

> Sport always solves social problems.

Exercise G1. Complete

1. _____ together can build trust. (play)

2. _____ to others may change someone’s judgement. (listen)

© 2026 Madame Carole Paoli Pompougnac · CC BY-NC-SA 4.0

3. _____ funds requires organisation. (raise)

Exercise G2. Join with “although”

1. Russ introduces lacrosse. The young people shape the project.

2. The team loses. The final match remains meaningful.

Exercise G3. Make the claim more careful

1. Sport solves every problem.

2. This film tells us what all Inuit people think.

3. Russ gives the young people all their agency.

Exercise G4. Speak

Prepare three sentences:

1. An -ing subject.

2. A sentence with “although”.

3. A careful claim using “may” or “can”.

Say them aloud without claiming to speak for the community.

12. After viewing: your personal response

Exercise A1. Revisit your prediction

Return to B3.

Complete:

> “Before viewing, I thought…”
>
> “After viewing, I would qualify this because…”

Use one specific moment.

Exercise A2. Write your response

Follow your route’s word range.

Include:

1. One moment that challenged or confirmed an expectation.

2. One decision made by a young person.

3. One contribution made by somebody other than Russ.

4. One limit to what lacrosse can achieve.

5. One connection with the sequence.

6. One careful statement about representation.

© 2026 Madame Carole Paoli Pompougnac · CC BY-NC-SA 4.0

You may dislike the film or question its choices. Assessment concerns the quality of your reasoning, not whether your opinion is positive.

13. Prepare the debate

Debate questions

Choose one main question and one question you are ready to answer.

1. Who changes whom? Is the strongest interpretation that Russ changes the students, that the students change Russ, or that change comes through relationships?

2. Support or control? When does help become a decision made for other people? Which moments show Russ learning this distinction?

3. What counts as education? How should we compare classroom learning, learning on the land and learning through a team without ranking people's knowledge as superior or inferior?

4. Land and water: setting or relationship? What does the film show about land and water as sources of food, knowledge and connection? What does it not establish about legal ownership or water rights?

5. What makes a promise responsible? Is a good intention enough, or must a promise include resources, consultation and a realistic plan?

6. Who gets heard? Compare Miranda's organising, the council's authority, the grandmother's intervention and Russ's position. Who can act, and who must persuade others?

7. Who defines success? Do the teacher, the players and the competition use the same measure of success?

8. Who speaks for whom? Does the film give young characters room to influence the story, or does it still centre the outsider? Can both interpretations be partly true?

9. Hope and structural change Can a hopeful ending recognise continuing material and institutional problems? What would be lost if we discussed only personal resilience?

A boundary for the sequence

The film can help us question who decides, who belongs, who listens and who keeps commitments. It cannot, on its own, establish the facts of a separate land dispute, a treaty claim or a water-rights controversy.

For those claims, use the relevant sequence document. Name it accurately. Do not turn a thematic connection into invented factual evidence.

Exercise D1. Complete your debate card

My question: _____

My position: _____

Film evidence 1, with character and action: _____

Film evidence 2, with character and action: _____

© 2026 Madame Carole Paoli Pompougnac · CC BY-NC-SA 4.0

A different interpretation: _____

My response to that interpretation: _____

My sequence connection: _____

Document needed to support that connection: _____

One limit to my claim: _____

My question for another student: _____

Exercise D2. Rehearse

Record or say your contribution.

Use:

• two vocabulary items;

• one attributed viewpoint;

• one scene;

• one concession;

• one limit.

Do not impersonate an Inuit character or invent testimony.

14. Flashcards and written record

Make four flashcards

1. Choose two topic words and two useful structures.

2. Write the word or structure on the front.

3. Write a meaning and an original example on the back.

4. Test yourself without looking.

5. Review the cards the next day and before the debate.

Model cards:

| Front | Back |
|---|---|
| agency | Ability to act and influence events. “Miranda shows agency through organising.” |
| accountability | Being answerable for decisions. “Promises require accountability.” |
| Although …, … | Recognise a contrast. “Although the team loses, the match matters.” |
| This may suggest … | Introduce a careful interpretation. “This may suggest a change in trust.” |

Blank card:

Front: _____

Meaning or function: _____

My example: _____

Written record

The Grizzlies presents hope through relationships, young people's decisions and collective action. Lacrosse creates opportunities, but it does not remove every difficulty. The film invites us to question promises, responsibility and whose knowledge is recognised. I attribute viewpoints to particular characters and distinguish film evidence from wider claims about Inuit experiences.

Homework to bring to the debate

Bring:

• your viewing notes;

• your debate card;

• your personal response;

• four flashcards.

Part II. Complete answer key and assessment guidance

1. Before viewing

B1

1. The Grizzlies.

2. Miranda de Pencier.

3. Kugluktuk, Nunavut, Canada.

4. A fictional drama based on real events.

5. No. It presents selected characters, events and filmmaking choices, not every Inuit experience.

B2

Possible answers consistent with the supplied lesson:

1. A synopsis and an interview.

2. What those sources presented about the film, relationships, agency and hope.

3. The whole film, unseen scenes or its ending.

4. Scenes, character development, turning points and my response to the full film.

B3

No single correct viewpoint.

© 2026 Madame Carole Paoli Pompougnac · CC BY-NC-SA 4.0

A successful answer gives a reason and remains open to revision.

2. While-viewing factual answers

The factual key below follows the film's published plot account, checked against its synopsis and review material. Credit accurate paraphrase. Do not require students to reproduce distressing details.

Part 1

| Question | Answer |
|---|---|
| P1.1 | He takes a history-teaching job in Kugluktuk. |
| P1.2 | He wants to pay off student debt and initially sees the post as temporary while hoping for a position at St Andrews. |
| P1.3 | Accept two: poor attendance, difficulty establishing trust, cultural misunderstanding, conflict with Zach. |
| P1.4 | Roger. |

Part 2

| Question | Answer |
|---|---|
| P2.1 | Lacrosse. |
| P2.2 | Miranda. |
| P2.3 | Adam hunts and learns with his grandparents. Zach helps provide for his family, including through hunting, and has responsibilities towards his younger brother. |
| P2.4 | In an abandoned cargo container. Russ offers access to the school by giving him a key. |
| P2.5 | Money, specifically twenty dollars, for attending an early practice and bringing others. |

Part 3

| Question | Answer |
|---|---|
| P3.1 | Toronto, for the national lacrosse championships. |
| P3.2 | Miranda. Accept fundraising through community events, festivals or lacrosse tournaments. |
| P3.3 | Their distrust is connected with traumatic experiences of residential schooling. Do not replace this with the claim that they oppose all learning. |
| P3.4 | Hunting seals. |
| P3.5 | A lacrosse stick. |
| P3.6 | His family needs food and he must help provide it. |
| P3.7 | A sponsor withdraws funding and the money raised is insufficient. |
| P3.8 | Miranda seeks funding from the town council. Adam's grandmother speaks in support and helps change the decision. |

Part 4

| Question | Answer |
|---|---|

© 2026 Madame Carole Paoli Pompougnac · CC BY-NC-SA 4.0

| | |
|---|---|
| P4.1 | Zach. |
| P4.2 | A teaching opportunity at St Andrews. |
| P4.3 | Miranda. |
| P4.4 | In the gymnasium. |

Part 5

| Question | Answer |
|---|---|
| P5.1 | No. |
| P5.2 | Scoring a goal. |
| P5.3 | Kyle. |
| P5.4 | He decides to stay in Kugluktuk. |
| P5.5 | The closing material connects the drama with the real team members and gives information about their later lives. |

The ending distinguishes competitive defeat from other achievements, rather than presenting the team as tournament winners. The closing material is also noted in contemporary review coverage.

3. Interpretation guidance

There is no fixed answer to an interpretation question. Award credit for an identifiable moment, a clear explanation and an appropriately limited claim.

| Questions | Possible lines of interpretation |
|---|---|
| P1.5 to P1.7 | Russ initially reads absence or resistance through his expectations of school. The opening gives viewers substantial access through his arrival, while also introducing young people's lives. Visual analysis should describe framing, space or atmosphere without claiming that a landscape determines everyone's feelings. |
| P2.6 to P2.8 | Miranda advises and organises; players choose to participate; young people bring relationships and knowledge Russ lacks. Practice can create contact, cooperation and a shared purpose. |
| P3.9 | School learning and learning through hunting need not be treated as mutually exclusive. Students should recognise the family's knowledge and the institutional history affecting trust. |
| P3.10 | The hunting scene connects land and water with food, knowledge and relationships. Accept other accurately described moments. |
| P3.11 | The first statement is attributed and historically contextualised within the story. The second overgeneralises from particular characters to all Inuit families. |
| P4.5 to P4.7 | The gathering shows peer relationships and collective mourning. Commitments affect people who rely on them. The continuing losses and pressures prevent a simple "sport fixes everything" reading. |
| P5.6 | Russ initially offers participation as a sufficient achievement; Kyle asserts the players' wish to keep striving and score. His response gives a |

| | |
|---|---|
| | young person authority over the meaning of the match. |
| P5.7 to P5.8 | Hope can be read as continued action and connection rather than a guarantee. The closing material links drama to real lives but does not turn the film into a complete community history. |

The interpretation of Russ's role should remain debatable. Published reviews differ in how successfully they think the film moves beyond an outsider-centred rescue narrative. Students may defend either judgement with film evidence.

4. Vocabulary answers

V1

1c; 2e; 3b; 4a; 5f; 6d.

V2

1. raise funds

2. agency

3. commitment

4. mutual support

V3

Possible answers:

1. The film portrays young people as active participants.

2. They stand up for one another.

3. As an outsider, Russ does not understand everything when he arrives.

V4

Model:

> Miranda helps raise funds for the trip. Her organising shows agency because she influences what the team can do.

Accept other accurate applications.

5. Grammar answers

G1

1. Playing

2. Listening

3. Raising

G2

1. Although Russ introduces lacrosse, the young people shape the project.

© 2026 Madame Carole Paoli Pompougnac · CC BY-NC-SA 4.0

2. Although the team loses, the final match remains meaningful.

G3

Possible answers:

1. Sport can create support, but it does not solve every problem.

2. This film presents particular Inuit characters, not the views of all Inuit people.

3. Russ creates an opportunity, but the young people exercise agency through their own decisions.

G4

Model:

> Playing together can strengthen relationships. Although Russ starts the project, Miranda helps shape it. The team may create opportunities for participation.

6. After-viewing and debate models

A1 model

> Before viewing, I thought the coach would define the team's success. After viewing, I would qualify this because Kyle challenges Russ during the final match and encourages the players to keep trying.

A2 model

> The moment that challenged my expectations most was Kyle's response during the final match. I expected the coach to decide what counted as success, but Kyle insists that the players should continue trying. Miranda's fundraising also matters because it makes her an organiser rather than simply someone receiving help. Although lacrosse creates a shared purpose, the film does not show that sport removes every difficulty. Adam's responsibilities and his grandparents' distrust of schooling reveal pressures that a team cannot resolve alone. The hunting scene connects with our sequence because land and water are linked with knowledge and livelihood, not only scenery. In my view, the film offers hope through relationships. However, it presents selected experiences, and I would not use it to claim that all Inuit people share one viewpoint.

This is a model of structure, not a required opinion.

D1 model debate card

• Question: Who defines success?

• Position: The players should have a voice in defining their own achievement.

• Evidence 1: Kyle challenges Russ during the final match.

• Evidence 2: Miranda influences the conditions that allow the team to travel.

• Different interpretation: Russ's encouragement helps the players recognise what they have already achieved.

• Response: That support matters, although it should not replace listening to their ambitions.

• Sequence connection: Participation in decisions affecting one's future.

© 2026 Madame Carole Paoli Pompougnac · CC BY-NC-SA 4.0

• Further source needed: A named sequence document showing who participates in a land or water decision.

• Limit: A sports decision and a legal rights dispute are not identical.

• Question: Can encouragement become limiting if adults decide what is enough?

7. Assessment and student self-correction

This extension does not replace the sequence's diagnostic, mid-point and summative assessments. Use B2 and B3 diagnostically, the viewing log formatively, and A2 plus D2 as evidence feeding into the final debate.

Teacher rubric

Score each criterion from 0 to 3.

| Criterion | 0 | 1 | 2 | 3 |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Film understanding | No usable evidence | Some confusion | Mostly accurate | Accurate, relevant details |
| Reasoning | Unsupported assertion | Reason with little evidence | Evidence explained | Evidence, counter-view and qualification |
| Cultural care | Repeated generalisation | Attribution inconsistent | Viewpoints usually attributed | Attribution and limits consistently clear |
| Language | Meaning often unclear | Limited but understandable | Relevant vocabulary and mostly secure structures | Precise reuse of vocabulary, concession and careful claims |
| Spoken interaction | No assessable contribution | Brief prepared statement | Contribution and response | Contribution, listening and relevant follow-up |

Adapt the expected length and complexity to the route. Do not assess accent against a native-speaker ideal or reward personal disclosure.

Student self-correction grid

| Check | Yes / Not yet | What I need to change |
|---|---|---|
| I named an accurate film moment. | | |
| I explained why it supports my opinion. | | |
| I recognised another interpretation. | | |
| I attributed a viewpoint to a named character. | | |
| I avoided speaking for Inuit people. | | |
| I used two vocabulary items correctly. | | |
| I used an -ing subject or "although" correctly. | | |

Correction task:

© 2026 Madame Carole Paoli Pompougnac · CC BY-NC-SA 4.0

1. Use the teacher’s rubric to identify one weakness.

2. Write what was missing or inaccurate.

3. Rewrite the relevant passage.

4. Underline the improvement.

5. Rehearse the improved spoken version.

8. Optional classroom follow-up: 55 minutes, timed for 52

This is a post-viewing lesson. It contains no full-film screening.

| Time | Activity |
|---|---|
| 0 to 4 | Diagnostic recall: source type, place and one limit. |
| 4 to 11 | Pairs check factual notes against the key. |
| 11 to 19 | Groups compare two turning points and attribute viewpoints. |
| 19 to 27 | Discuss land, water and the limits of thematic connections. |
| 27 to 34 | Correct vocabulary and grammar exercises. |
| 34 to 44 | Debate in groups of four. Each student contributes and asks or answers a question. |
| 44 to 49 | Copy the written record and improve one claim. |
| 49 to 52 | Record homework and review flashcards. |
| 52 to 55 | Equipment, organisation and departure. No new task. |

Stopping point: minute 44.

Eight-minute emergency exit, replacing the remaining work:
